ARMED FORCES MEDICAL LIBRARY
WASHINGTON, D. C.

COLUMBIA COLLEGE, in the city of New-York, was originally founded by Royal Charter, in the year 1754, under the name of King's College, by which title it continued to be known until the period of the Revolution. During the interval which elapsed between the years 1776 and 1784, the business of instruction was necessarily suspended, in consequence of the confusion of the times, and the College edifice appropriated to the purposes of a Military Hospital. Upon the restoration of public tranquillity, certain individuals were appointed by an act of the Legislature, dated May 1st, 1784, to superintend the general interests of education throughout the State, under the title of Regents of the University, whose number was subsequently increased by an act passed 26th November, in the same year. By these the duties of Trustees of the College were also discharged until the year 1787. On the 13th April, 1787, an act was passed, by which the original charter of the College was confirmed, the name of the Institution altered to Columbia College, and its direction confided to certain persons mentioned in said act, who were authorized by the provisions of the same, to discharge the duties of Trustees of the College, and were empowered, for the time to come, to fill all vacancies which might occur in their number by death, resignation, or otherwise, after it should have been diminished to twenty-four. The government of the College has continued to be exercised in conformity with this act until the present time.

No public Commencement was held this year in consequence of the disordered state of public affairs. The degree of A. B., however, was awarded by the Faculty to the following individuals :

Samuel Bayard,
James Devereux,

Peter Kissam,
 Matthias Nicoll,
 Peter Ogden,
 Marinus Willett.

No accession was made to the numbers of the Institution during the year 1776. On the 6th April, in that year, an order was issued by the Committee of Public Safety, directing the Treasurer to prepare the College buildings, within eight days, for the reception of the military. The students, in consequence, retired to their respective homes, and, the Library and apparatus having been deposited for safe keeping in the City Hall, the College edifice was converted into a Military Hospital. At the close of the Revolutionary war, by virtue of an act of the State Legislature, dated May 1st, 1784, certain persons, named therein, were appointed to superintend the general interests of Education throughout the State, under the title of Regents of the University: these acted also as Trustees of the College. On the 13th April, 1787, an act of the Legislature was passed, confirming the Royal Charter, altering the name of the Institution to Columbia College, and appointing a new Board of Trustees. The government of the College has been administered in conformity with the last mentioned act unto the present time.

The first public Commencement after the re-organization of the College was held A. D. 1786: From this period the order of merit is observed in giving the names of the candidates for the Baccalaureate.
